

1. Director of Central Intelligence Agency appears before Congressional committees about 25 - 30 times annually (probably about same number of times as Secretary of Defense and Secretary of State).
2. Numerous investigations by various special commissions -- President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board does a continuous monitoring and review submitting reports directly to President with their recommendations.
3. Jurisdiction point (from Arends' speech).
4. There are four Congressional subcommittees: Armed Services and Appropriations, House and Senate. Vinson, Cannon, Russell, Hayden. These are the men to ask is CIA doing a proper job. If joint committee you would ask the chairman.
5. Hayden Report -- Legislative versus Executive.
6. Let me state -- based on membership of CIA Subcommittee -- CIA is doing a proper job and good job. Joint Committee can't improve it. Unnecessary and I am opposed.
7. To put this resolution on Floor for debate simply offers a field day to permit repetition of baseless charges and untruths about which we have seen too much recently. We know CIA is a prime target for destruction by the Communist rulers in Kremlin -- let us not unwittingly assist them in their job by providing forum for and believe they have information re CIA bring it to the existing subcommittee for investigation.
